At the heart of a great university...

The Friends of the University of Arizona Libraries is composed of individuals who recognize that great universities become great and are sustained by great libraries. The Friends engage in activities that enhance the ability of the Libraries to stimulate learning and research through:

- Sponsorship of programs and events designed to enhance the Libraries’ visibility
- Sponsorship of exhibits and receptions for members and donor prospects
- An Annual Book Sale
- Donor identification & membership drives

The Friends’ contributions are used to purchase physical and digital items needed by students and scholars, to improve library technology and spaces, and to sponsor readings and lectures for the benefit of the community. A donation to the Libraries is a priceless investment in the future quality of our academic community, and a reflection of the value you place on knowledge and literacy. As a member of the Friends, your support of the Libraries will provide expanded access to books and manuscripts, computers and software, online resources, and improved library spaces.

Over the years, the Friends’ investments in the Libraries have strengthened print and digital collections, supported the renovation of library spaces, and sustained the UA Libraries’ reputation as one of the top academic research libraries in the nation.

I want to support the UA Libraries
